INTRODUCTION.

THE history of Parish Registers in England has been amply illustrated by the researches of Mr. R. S. Burn, and more recently by Mr. R. E. Chester-Waters. It is therefore, in this place, only desirable to recall attention to the few following facts in connection with the subject.

Although public registers were coeval with the constitutions of Lycurgus and Solon, and were preserved by the Jews as a sacred deposit in the Temple at Jerusalem, they were unknown in Europe until the close of the fifteenth century. In England they were not introduced until the reign of Henry VIII., when Cromwell, the Vicar-General and supreme head of the Church of England, issued an injunction dated September 9th, 1538, "That the curate of every parish church shall keep one book or register, which book he shall every Sunday take forth, and in the presence of the churchwardens, or one of them, write and record in the same all the weddings, christ'nings and burials made the whole week before; and for every time that the same shall be omitted shall forfeit to the said church iiis. iiijd." &c.

No less than 812 of the existing registers in this country begin at this date. The fate of the remainder is uncertain, but a large number were probably destroyed during the Civil War, lost by the negligence of their guardians, or passed, as in a recently reported instance, into the hands of private individuals.

On October 25th, 1597, a new ordinance was issued by a Convocation of the clergy of Canterbury, laying down more precise regulations as to the preservation and custody of parish registers, and these were afterwards embodied in the 70th Canon of 1603, which imposed upon every minister "to keep the register book according to the Queen's Majesty's instructions." In each parish a parchment book was ordered to be provided, in which the entries from the old paper books were "to be fairly and legibly transcribed, each page being authenticated by the signature of the ministers and churchwardens." This latter regulation would appear to have been frequently disregarded, as neither the Walsall nor the Birmingham Registers show any signatures presumably official. Under this 70th Canon the registers were kept by the clergy until the passing of Rose's Act in 1812.

Most of the existing register books are transcripts made at the expense of the parish, in conformity with the injunction made in 1597 or 1603.

On January 3rd, 1644-5, the Directory was, by a solemn ordinance, substituted for the Book of Common Prayer, and it was ordained that "a fair register book of vellim" be provided in every parish, which should contain additional particulars to those already required.

Many registers, notably those of Walsall and Birmingham, terminate about this time, or are continued in so fragmentary a manner as to indicate pretty clearly the anarchy and confusion that reigned on every hand. This is well illustrated by an entry in the register of St. Bridget's, Chester: "1643. Here the register is defective till 1653. The tymes were such." Many entries of a like suggestive character are found throughout the country.

By an Act passed in 1653, the clergy were required to give up their register books to laymen, who were to be called the "parish registers;" but at the Restoration the parochial clergy again recovered possession of them. Those interested in the subsequent history of this subject are referred to the authorities already quoted.

The first Register Book of Walsall Church is a venerable volume, of oblong folio size, measuring 13in. by 9in., and containing 254 pages. It is strongly bound in thick vellum, with inner protective sheets, taken from some old illuminated MS. of very early 15th century date, and finely written. The edges have at some time been cut away, and in many places the writing is fading from damp, exposure, and the usage of centuries. There are, however, but few pages that cannot be satisfactorily deciphered.

The volume contains transcripts of the original paper registers, in the following order:—

BAPTISMS.—March 25th, 1570, to April 2nd, 1646.
BURIALS.—April 2nd, 1570, to March 17th, 1647.
MARRIAGES.—April 16th, 1570, to December 29th, 1649.

The transcript was most probably made in pursuance of the injunction of 1597, as the handwriting of the first scribe in the three divisions respectively of Baptisms, Deaths and Marriages, terminates about the same time, viz., March 9th and 15th and February 3rd, 1598. These earlier portions are neatly written in the Court hand of James I. They are in English, with Latinized terminations, and are freely contracted. Like the Birmingham Register, they are evidently the work of a writer possessed of little ability or literary knowledge. The same may be said of the four or five succeeding scribes, who continued the work, their joint caligraphy bearing marks of hurry, carelessness and indifference.

We may usefully compare the present volume with those of some of the surrounding towns. In point of age several precede it, as those of Derby and Burton, which commence in 1538; Darlaston, 1539; Aston-Juxta, Birmingham, 1544; St. Martin's, Birmingham, 1554; Aldridge, which commenced in 1558, but was lost during the Civil War; and Wednesbury, 1561. Wolverhampton dates from 1603; West Bromwich, 1608; Rushall, 1686; and Bloxwich, 1733.

The book covers a space of 79 years, from 1570 to 1649, commencing in the 12th Elizabeth, and continuing throughout her reign and that of James I. to the last year but one of that of Charles I. The period is one of much general as well as local interest, starting as it does with the excommunication of Elizabeth in 1570 by Pope Pius V., and the religious strife consequently aroused throughout the country, followed by the events of the great Civil War, and terminating with the surrender of Charles to the Parliament. Walsall at this time was a comparatively small town, and the manor was held by the family of Wilbraham, between whom and the townsfolk there were constant disputes concerning heriots and other fines. We have no absolute means of determining the number of inhabitants, though the Register itself helps to throw some light upon the question, and a survey of the manor taken in 1617 contains a valuable list of all those holding land or homes on the estate, at the same time accurately defining the metes and bounds of the parish, and many points and place-names hitherto obscure.

Turning to the old church we find her just despoiled of her rich chantries and still suffering from neglect and decay. Robert Weston was in peaceful possession as Vicar in 1569 and was succeeded in 1574 by Robertus Wilson, whose death is recorded in 1608. William Thornton and Henry Green followed, and both were buried in St. Matthew's, the latter in 1608. Passing over Richard Hunt, who only remained for a short time, we come to a more prominent man, the Rev. Thomas Byrdall, M.A. He was the author of several books, a ripe scholar, a popular preacher, and a man of most estimable virtue. He died in 1662, just before the passing of the Act of Uniformity. It was in his time that the Civil War swept like a destructive whirlwind over the land, and it is traditionally related that the church at this time was desecrated by the Oliverian troops, and its monuments and windows ruthlessly destroyed.

Amid all these momentous troubles the Register comes abruptly to an end, and appears to have passed into private hands for the sake of safer security.

The Register differs from that of St. Martin's, Birmingham, in the number and variety of its contractions, at the same time giving fuller details, and in many instances the occupations, as, "fletcher," "bagpipe plaier," "minstrell," "trancelator," &c. It also contains various place names now lost, records some notable events and defines death by the plague, by drowning, or by accident.

A few points illustrating these peculiarities may be briefly noted.

1st.—The contractions of the text.

Many of these are common to the Court Hand of the time, and some peculiar to the writers themselves. Thus William is written Wiłłm or Williă; Thomas, Thoms or Thome; Humphrey, Hūfery; Richard, Riđ; Christópher, Xpr; Alport, Alpt; Cooper, Cowp. In the name of the parent the genitive is usually given, as "filia Laurencii," "filia Walteri;" sometimes the English, as "of Hughe." B or Bł denotes Bloxwich; S̃ or Shẽ, Shelfield; and Peł, Pelsall. Sarah is written Sã, Alice, Ał, and woman, w̃. Of the remaining contractions the most common are ux, wife; p for per; pk, park; señ, senior; tõ, ton; sõ, son; mã, man; ƀ, ber; ꝑ, ter; ñ, ner; &c.

2nd.—Signs of hurry.

We find names omitted or copied twice or spelled in a different manner, or redundant as Mereredeth, Smythth, &c.

3rd.—Names of persons and of places now obsolete.

Wolloxall, Goldyloxe, Wormwood, Aprichard, Twytlebawke, Vulture, and Christian names, as Feales, Tymison, Bryde, Jocose, Peregrine, Petronyll, Pernella, Christall, Felice, Annis, and Christophia. Places such as Pinfold Greene, Walsall Parke, the Ewetree, the Marlepitt, and the Horseshoe, &c., have now disappeared.

4th.—Names have become abbreviated.

Comberlage, from Comƀlage, results in Comlag. Persehouse or Parkeshouse becomes ꝑks, and finally Perks and Parkes, whilst Wilbraham is transformed into Wilbram.

5th.—Occupations are freely given, some of which are now obsolete.

Thus we have Peuterer, barber, nailer, mercer, spurrier, tanner, Dishmaker, Minstrell, Salt Peter mã, basketmaker, the Cook, hiltmaker, glover, cowp, Lockmaker, collier, stondigger, Limedigger, charmã, horsshoer, Sherman, salter, Riꝯ the Mercer, housebandman, Trancelator, rowell maker, stirrup maker, gentlemã, agric, Jerkin maker, Howsholder, Atturney, bagpipe plaier, fletcher, peregring, feemã, and speuterer.

6th.—Signs of sympathy.

A poore vid; a pore wandering womã; Jone Barrat innocent, and old Edmund Person an honest mã.

7th.—Burials and Marriages at other churches were sometimes recorded, as "buried at Rushall Mary Urhom," "married at bromwich John Clarkson et Anne Hall."

8th.—Occurrences are often noted or indicated.

The frequency of the names Ferdinand and Isabella show how popular they still were, whilst numerous deaths from the Plague in 1603 and of soldiers in 1644 indicate that the town neither escaped the pestilence nor the civil strife of those years. Many fatalities are recorded, "Robert Maddox drownded at Tame Bridge"; "Matthew Roche and seven drownded in the Mill poole"; "one that was burned in the lyme pit"; "Roger Peere slaine at Walsall Wake"; "at Wednesbury, Ri℞ Bassett that fell into the cole pitt"; "old James Hodgekinson and his sonn in law slaine by his father"; John Curtler killed in the cole pit with the earth damp." &c., &c. In the same way a record was sometimes made of an event as "buried old vid Blackham same day as greate bell was broken."

9th.—Some few curiosities may be finally mentioned.

Cases of twins are thus entered—"Gregory Skelton and Margery ii Twynes of Gregory"; "Mary Urom / John Urhom } fil Jocosa"; and John ⁊ Anne gemini John ⁊ Isbell." Illegitimate children are described as "a base child"; or "filis populi," and personal pecularities defined as "Tho Cooke uno oculo," "Eliz Prescott comonlie called blind bes," "Eliz Heeley that deafe and dume from Gorscott."

Amongst other curious entries may be noted "John Hancoxe & John Rocke sonne of ii Thomas."

"Old Morrey pater Leonardi," and "Mother Homersley mater Thoms," and "Jone Pytt fil Mri pitt,:' may be quoted as incongrueties, whilst other curious entries are exemplified in "old goodwyfe Pickerill," and "Infans unius noctis."

One other notable entry may be noticed on page 103. "Daniell Washington and Margery Pettie which were in the house of correction there fathers called themselves Egyptians." The Statute of the 5th Eliz. made it a capital felony "to continue for one month in any company or fellowship of vagabonds commonly called Egyptians," and many of the latter unfortunates met with their death by hanging. This barbaric law was not repealed until 1783.

It may also be noted that the Register contains no single example of a double name, thus agreeing with the experience of Waters, who states that "he has found only one solitary instance of an Englishman bearing two names before the middle of the 16th century."

The question as to who were the writers of the Register must still be left undecided, but there seems warrant for the belief that Henry Stoughton and Joseph Chatterton, both probably clerks of the church, were among the number.

One interesting point raised by the publication of this and other registers is their value in determining the population in times whence no trustworthy facts on the subject have been preserved. No examination of the question is possible here, but with regard to Walsall it may be stated that a careful comparison with the Birmingham Register shows that in the latter part of the 16th century the baptisms, deaths, and marriages in the former town were largely in excess of those recorded in the latter, and this with other data may be adduced as some proof of superiority in numbers at that time.

Lastly, it must be stated that in making the present transcription my aim has been an earnest one, viz., to produce a faithful copy of the text, preserving at the same time its innumerable errors, and whenever possible giving its contractions and peculiarities. A most careful revision of the proofs has been made, and where mistakes are met with, it must be understood that with barely an exception neither the publisher nor myself need be held responsible. Where letters have been problematical the most likely have been chosen, as Butler for Batler, &c., and where doubt has existed an asterisk has always been inserted. Illegibilities are marked throughout by a dotted line, and a total blank must be taken for the same in the original. Whenever practicable short illustrative notes have been made, but in a large number of instances where there has been uncertainty they have been left out. The Survey of the Manor taken in 1617, the Staffordshire Collections and other records have, for this purpose, been freely utilized.

F. W. WILLMORE.

THE PARISH CHURCH.

THE following is a brief outline of the main facts relating to the church. A more detailed account may be referred to elsewhere.

The present Church of S. Matthew occupies the site of a much older fabric, originally dedicated to All Saints, a name which it retained until the time of the Reformation, but when or from what cause it was changed is unknown.

From its elevated position and from the antiquity of the manor and town, it has heen assumed that a church existed here during the early Norman period, if not before. The first definite information which, however, we possess, is in the 1 John (1200), when, by a charter dated April 25th, the King granted "the church of Wallehale to the Bishop of Coventry." The same charter includes a grant of the churches of "Rugeley and Canok to the church of SS. Mary and Chad, Lichfield." This is interesting because we subsequently find that the King had obtained the manors of Rugeley and Canok for an annual payment of £10 to the Bishop, and in order that he might be quit of this payment he had given to the Bishop the advowsons of the churches of Waleshale and Canok.

Thus we have at this distant period a church definitely established, having probably been in existence for many years previously and resting on the debris and decay of an anciently entrenched fortress, the product of pre-historic and unrecorded ages.

The next record is found in the 12 John (1210–1), when that King, who was patron of the living, appointed one of his chaplains, Magister Serlo de Sunning, as the rector, at the same time giving to Magister William, another of the royal chaplains, the church of Wednesbury.

This Magister Serlo is the first rector of whom we find any notice, and it is worthy of remark that a namesake, and possibly a relation of his, Robert Serlo, was Mayor of London about this time.

The only records of the church during the next ten years are those of a quarrel between the King and the lord of the manor as to the right to the advowson. The Plea Rolls for 7 Henry III. (1223) state that "William Ruffus was summoned to answer by what right he claimed the advowson of the church of Waleshalle, which Magister Serlo de Sunning holds of the gift of King John the father of the King, and of which the King is the patron and on account of which Serlo complained that the said William had distrained him by his goods, &c., and taken his cattle and done him many other injuries, because he would never acknowledge him as patron of the said church; and for twelve years past that he had held the church by gift of King John. William had taken every year from him the cattle and corn of his tythes and wasted his land and taken and imprisoned his men and from one of his servants he took twelve marks, so that he has been damaged to the amount altogether of two hundred marks and therefore he brings suit. And William appeared and stated that he made no claim to the advowson, that he held the manor from the ancestors of the lord the King, and acknowledged the King was patron, and as to the rest of the complaint he denied it in toto and offered to defend it by wager of battle," &c.

The Plea Rolls do not contain the final result of this suit, but other records inform us that the King still retained his hold upon the advowson.

About the year 1220 Sir William Ruffus, then lord of the manor, granted to the Abbey of Hales Owen, in Worcestershire, the church of Waleshale, together with its chapels, which latter appear to have been those of Rushall and Bloxwich. This deed, which is still preserved in the British Museum, was confirmed in a charter granted by Henry III., and dated from Evesham on June 15th, 1233.

The Abbey, however, did not at this time acquire the advowson of the living, which remained in the hands of the King till a subsequent period. The Tenure Roll of Offlow (1255) confirms the above, and shews that the advowson alternated from King John to the Bishop, and from the latter to Henry III.

On the death of Magister Serlo about 1244, Osbert de Maidenstan, chaplain of the King, had letters of presentation given to him "to the church of Waleshale," and in the following year the church, together with its chapels and belongings, was for a second time granted by Henry to the Abbey. It would seem that at this time the church of Waleshale occupied an important position in the diocese, and by its increased revenues and endowments had become a valuable possession to the Monastery of Hales. But the monks must have felt their tenure to have been an uncertain one, that the advowson belonged to the King, and that at any time he or his successors might lay claim not only to the advowson, but also to the revenues of the church itself, and thus, when obtaining from the King a confirmation of the original grant and foundation charter of the Abbey, they also obtained a charter conferring upon them the church of Waleshale and the chapels of Wednesbury, Bloxwich and Rushall, then under its jurisdiction, and the two latter of which were chapels of ease to the church of Waleshale. This charter is still preserved, and is dated at Woodstock on July 15th, 1245.

Two years later the Patent Rolls record that "Master Vincent, the companion and master of Aymar, the brother of the King, has letters of presentation to the church of Waleshal, which is vacant and in the gift of the King."

The policy of the monks now appears to have been directed to obtain from the Bishop the transference of the great tythes and the consequent transforming of the rectory into a vicarage, a common custom among the monasteries at that time. Accordingly, in 1248, a deed was obtained by the monks from the Bishop of Lichfield for appropriating the church, with its chapels, and ordaining the Vicarage of Waleshal.

The document is too long to be quoted at length, but the following is a fair summary of its contents :—

"Roger, the Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, and Richard, the Treasurer of Lichfield, after stating their approval of the pious disposition of the King in granting to the abbey the patronage of the church and expressing their desire for the benefit of those religious persons the abbot and his monks, 'to whom on account of the conflux of strangers (as it is reported) sufficient means are not afforded for Godly charity,' decree, with the consent of the Chapter of Lichfield, that on the death or resignation of the then rector, Master Vincent, the said abbot and convent should have the church of Waleshal, with its appurtenances and revenues, to convert them to their own use. To the vicarage was reserved thirteen marks, to be assigned to the vicar by faithful and discreet persons deputed by the bishop. This was to be derived from certain obventions of the church. The same persons were to divide the area and buildings of the church between the monks and the vicar as they thought fit. The vicar for the time being was to pay the accustomed burdens and alms to the bishop and archdeacon. For the burdens and services due to them from the chapelries of Wednesbury and Russhale, the vicar was to have over and above the thirteen marks already given to him, all the revenues of these chapels except the sheaves of corn, which revenues, if insufficient to bear the service and burdens of these chapels, were to be augmented by other incomes of the church. All other burdens were to be borne by the abbot and vicar in respective proportion. The abbot and convent were to pay annually to the church at Lichfield six marks for peaceable possession of the church of Waleshal, over which the church at Lichfield had sometimes claimed a right. Out of the six marks, 60s. were assigned for the works or repairs of the church of Lichfield, and the remaining 20s. for the vicar appointed for saying the Mass of the Blessed Virgin."

The original appropriation of Walsall Church (1248) is said to be in the possession of Lord Lyttleton, at Hagley. The rectorial tythes described under the heading "Sheaves of Corn," do not appear to have ever been reunited to the church. In 1535 they were given by Henry VIII. to Sir John Dudley to be held under military tenure. In the last century the greater part were sold in lots to different purchasers, and the burden of the chancel was attached to the two larger lots which were sold to the Earl of Bradford and Colonel Walhouse, In 1845 the tythes were commuted, those of the rectorial for £330. and the vicarial for £300 per annum.

For the next fifty years the abbey seems to have enjoyed pretty peacefully the revenues of the church, and also the presentation to the living, but in 1292 a "quo warranto" was issued by the Crown for the recovery of the advowsons of Walsall and Wednesbury. This was on account of the abbot resenting an appointment made by the King to the living of Wednesbury. The case was tried at Stafford, and a verdict was given for the King. So far as Wednesbury was concerned, Hugo de Louther, on behalf of the Crown, contending that "at the time of King Henry's grant the church of Wednesbury was not one of the chapels belonging to Waleshale, but had for some time previously been a mother church, and was in no way connected with Waleshale."

In the latter half of the 14th century various chantries were founded, one in 1365 by John de Beverleye and William Colesone, of Waleshale. A second by Sir Thomas Aston, of Tixall, in 1390, A third by Sir Roger Hillary, of Bescote, in 1391; and others by Thomas Mollesley and Henry Flaxale, Sir Richard Vernon, of Haddon Hall, John Barnard, &c. Full particulars of these are still preserved among the public records.

The chantries of Walsall survived the wholesale confiscations of the Eighth Henry, and remained unsuppressed until the reign of his successor, when John Dudley, the then lord of the manor, was created in 1547, Earl of Warwick, and obtained possession of the rectory of Walsall, its tythes and appurtenances, together with the chantry lands in common with those belonging to the Collegiate Church of Wolverhampton.

The accounts of the churchwardens are partly preserved so far back as the year 1462, in a rare volume rediscovered when the old town chest was cleared out at the building of the new Guildhall in 1865, having probably been placed there during the troubles of the Civil War.

In 1502, John Arundel, Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, declares by an "ordeynance," under the Episcopal seal, directed to the "Maior and his bredren" that in honour of the holy and undivided Trinity, the Blessed Mary and All Saints and for the advantage of Walsall Church they "shal kepe ther drynkynges iiii tymes in the yere, and hee that is absent at ony of those drynkynges, to forfett a pounde of waxe to burne for the light of the chapell of Saynte Kateryn in the sayd churche. Item, the wardens shall cause the priste to geve monycon bothe in the Churche of Walsale and in the Chapell of Bloxwyche IV days before every drynkynge under the like forfett of a pounde of waxe to the sayd altar."

That great work the Valor Ecclesiasticus of 1535 contains full particulars of the value and extent of the church and chantry property in Walsall at this time. From this we find that the Vicar received the annual income of £10 19s. 10d., from which was deducted tythes amounting to £1 1s. 11½d. Details are also given of ten chantries to each of which a priest was attached, having an income varying from £6 to £3 per annum.

The "Inventory of Church Goods," taken in 6 Ed. VI. (1552-3) has also preserved to us a list of the ornaments and property of the church in that year. It runs as follows :—

"Walsalle." "Fyrste one challes of sylver parcell gylte with a paten, threy coopes of whyte branched damaske with the vestements of sylke and albes for the priste, deacon, and sub-diacon, of the same colore; iii copes of cremesyn sylke with the vestements of the same and albes for the pryste, deacon, and sub-deacon, belonginge to the same; one cope of red fustian in aplis and the vestement of the same with the albe to hit, one vestement of whyte satten with the albe to hit, one vestement of dyverse colores of dornex, iii frounts for the alter, iii alter clothes, iii towelles, ii corporases, ii banner clothes, ii cruetts of leade, a crosse of copper and gylte, a paxe of tynne, ii candyl styks of brasse, one sacrynge bell, a sanctus bell, and iiii other bells.

Indorsed "Walsall."

An account of a similar character is given of the "church goodes" belonging to the chapell of Bloxwiche.

From another record we learn that in the year 1553 there were eight incumbents of chantries in Walsall still living and enjoying pensions varying from £6 to £5.

For nearly a century afterwards but little is recorded of the church, the chantries had disappeared, and their rich revenues had become dissipated, while the sacred fabric must have suffered from neglect and decay. The Rectory itself was purchased in 1590 by Henry Leigh of Rushall, from Robert Balthorpe of the City of London, in order "to raise portions for his younger children." Benefactions of various kinds were left for preaching sermons in the church, for the organ player, and the man "who bloweth the bellows," for making new seats, and various other objects.

Then came in 1642 the great Civil War, in the early part of which Walsall appears to have taken a strongly loyal course, and for this fidelity the church and town afterwards suffered considerably. If we may believe tradition the church was at this time converted into a stable by the Oliverian troops, the organ, woodwork, and prayer books burnt in the Market Place, the painted windows with their emblazoned panels, the sculptured monuments of local worthies, and the armorial carvings on the font and pulpit were ruthlessly destroyed, and the images of saints in the chancel and chapels were mutilated and defaced.

But the storm of civil strife passed away, the church was restored and the windows repaired with ordinary glass; the advowson of the vicarage came into the hands of the Wilbraham family, and passed finally with the manor into those of the Bridgemans.

In the year 1817 the church, after undergoing various alterations, was, with the exception of the tower and chancel, taken down, and the present building erected on the old foundation, at a cost of more than £17,000, under the direction of Mr. Goodwin, an architect of London.

The existing church is either the third or fourth which has stood upon the present site. Beneath the chancel is still intact the Early English crypt, which represents the Norman building of 1200. It has a fine vaulted roof, with massive groinings of stone, two pointed windows, and the remains of an ancient "ambre."

In the latter half of the 14th century, there is evidence that the church was rebuilt, probably by Thomas Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, then lord of the manor. By means of a massive Gothic arch over a public pathway the chancel was extended backwards and the building very much enlarged. It was cruciform, consisting of nave, chancel, and large side chapels, forming very short transepts, the roofs of which were peculiar in the fact that they lay east and west and parallel with the body of the church. The chancel contained eleven stalls on each side, grotesquely carved with figures and apparently removed from some old monastic building. Over the communion table was a large painting representing the Lord's Supper. There were monuments to the ancient family of Hillary of Bescot, one of which representing Sir Roger Hillary, who died in 1399, is now preserved in the crypt. Other tombs belonged to the Hextalls of Sleighford, and the Petits of Little Aston. The windows and pulpit contained coats of arms of Hillary, Aston, Beauchamp, Ferrers, and others. The ancient alabaster font still remains, richly carved with eight shields also relating to the above families. The church contained tablets to the following—

Thomas Nichols of Birmingham	d. 1711
John Grosvenor, Esq.	d. 1732
Judith, wife of Francis Best	d. 1686-7
Robert Felton, Vicar	d. 1769
Thomas Pashley	d. 1741

The church is described by Shaw as having been spacious and lofty, with large galleries east, west, north, and south. In the east gallery stood the organ, built by Father Smith after the Restoration, to replace the instrument burnt by the Oliverians. It contained several stops now obsolete, and was sold about 1772, a new organ being built by Samuel Green, of London, which cost £400, and now forms the nucleus of the present elaborate instrument. In 1775, the bells being "very ruinous and much decay'd," were recast by Thomas Rudhall, of Gloucester, at an expense of nearly £200. They were again restored in 1863, and two new trebles were added at the same time, thus forming a total of ten.

At the re-building of 1817, the lines of the ancient church were adhered to as far as possible, but the style of architecture adopted was of different dates, the arches of the west and south doors and the one dividing the church from the chancel being Gothic of the 13th century, whilst the remaining arches and windows were taken from examples of later date. The light iron columns supporting the galleries terminate in fine pointed arches far too slender and delicate for the proportions of the building. The old tower built of coarse limestone, was re-cased in stone. The present spire was put up in 1777 to replace an older one of unknown date.

The organ stood in the eastern gallery, entirely blocking up the large chancel arch, and occupying the space in front was a large three-decker pulpit. Sittings were said to be provided for 2,500 people, of which 1,136 were free.

In 1873 and 1877 various alterations and necessary repairs were made to the fabric, and in 1879, chiefly through the exertions of the Rev. William Allen, M.A., then Vicar, the old chancel was taken down and re-built, the organ gallery and three-decker pulpit and pews swept away, the nave and the chancel thus being thrown into one. At the same time the church was made entirely free. During the alterations several interesting discoveries were made. The tracery of one of the original windows in perfect condition, was found hidden between the organ and vestry wall, and from this the new chancel windows were carefully copied. The remains of a sedilia were also uncovered, and between the windows large stones, evidently representing figures of the saints, which still bear the marks of having been richly carved. Two ancient doorways were also found, the one communicating with the churchyard, and the other with the crypt beneath the chancel, and on the south side a flight of steps leading through the thickness of the wall into the churchyard. The chancel has a very perceptible inclination to the north, which is best seen from the altar steps. The stained glass window, by Messrs. Burlison and Grylls, of London, was erected as a memorial to Sister Dora, at a cost of £300. The church was re-opened in September, 1880, since which time valuable additions have been made to the interior.

INCUMBENTS OF THE PARISH CHURCH OF WALSALL.

THE following list of the Rectors and Vicars of the Church is now fairly complete, as fresh names have been added from time to time during the past few years, thus leaving only one or two breaks of a doubtful character. The period embraced amounts to nearly 700 years, and thus the list is by far more perfect than we might reasonably expect :—

Date of Institution.	RECTORS.	Patron.
1211	... Magister Serlo de Sunning ...	King John.
	He is the first Rector who is mentioned, and was one of King John's chaplains. His name also occurs in the Plea Rolls, 7 Henry III (1222–3), when a claim to the advowson of the living was unsuccessfully brought forward by William Ruffus, then lord of the manor. He was still Rector in 12 Henry III.
June 3, 1244	... Osbert de Maidenstan	Henry III.
	He was also one of the King's Chaplains.
June 21, 1247	... Magister Vincent	Henry III.
	Master Vincent was the last Rector. He was the companion and master of Aymar, the brother of the King, and was Incumbent in 1248, when the church was granted to the Abbey of Hales Owen.
	VICARS.
Feb. 26, 1294	.. William de Schepished	Edward I.
	He was a monk of Croxden Abbey ; took his first vow in 1288, and was ordained priest of Walsall by the Bishop of St. Asaph, on the 26th February, 1294. He was the author of a remarkable work called the "Annals of the Abbey of Crokysden," extending from William the Conqueror to the year 1294. Sleigh ("History of Leek") says that "he died as Abbot at the patriarchal age of 103."
1308 [?]	... Roger Hillary	Edward II.
	He was son of William Hillary of Bescote, and in 1325 was Rector of the church at Allerwich (Aldridge). The Plea Rolls for September, 1308, contain a suit concerning "common of pasture in Walshale against Roger Hillary, the Parson of the church of Walshale."

Feb. 26, 1430...	Frater Ricardus Worfelde	Abbot of Hales.
	Canon of Hales. Died in 1458.
Jan. 25, 1458...	Frater Thomas Nechelis	Abbot of Hales.
	Canon of Hales. Resigned 1462.
Feb. 4, 1462...	Frater Johannes Comber...	Abbot of Hales.
	Canon of Hales. He is witness to two deeds in the Walsall Calendar, in the years 1468 and 1469, and was still Vicar in 1478.
—	... Frater Henricus Eggebaston	Abbot of Hales.
	Resigned in 1489. He was Prior of Hales in 1478.
Dec. 15, 1489...	Johannes Seed	Abbot of Hales.
	Canon of Hales. He is mentioned in the Sneyd Roll penes the Corporation. He died in 1499.
May 11, 1499...	Dom: Willielmus Taylor...	Abbot of Hales.
	He was a Canon of Hales and afterwards Abbot, which latter office he resigned in June 1538, and had a pension for life of £66 13s. 4d. yearly.
—	... Johannes Turner	Abbot of Hales.
	He was Vicar in 1536, and is mentioned in the "Valor Ecclesiasticus." He died in 1569.
Nov. 11, 1569...	Robert Weston	George Clarkson.
	Resigned in 1574. William Ward is said by Shaw to have signed the Register as Vicar in 1571. This is an error, and the name in question is probably that of one of the wardens.
Mar. 12, 1574...	Robertus Wilson	George Clarkson.
	Robert Wilson died in 1608.
1608	... William Thornton	—
	He died on November 26th, 1615, and was buried in St. Matthew's.
1615	... Henry Green	—
	He is mentioned in the old Register and in other contemporary records as being Vicar of Walsall. He was buried at St. Matthew's, October 23rd, 1638.

Date of Institution.	Perpetual Vicars.	Patron.
1638	... Richard Hunt, B.D.	—

He was Vicar of Acton, near Nantwich; in 1638 Vicar of Walsall, from whence he was removed before the wars to St. Mary's Church, Chester. He died in 1662.

c 1650	... Thomas Byrdall, M.A.	Sir Richard Wilbraham.

His name is mentioned in a table of benefactions set up in 1654. He married Helen, widow of William Persehouse, of Hurst Hill, and was the author of two books, "A Glympse of God," published 1665, and dedicated to Sir Thomas Wilbraham and Lady Elizabeth, his wife; the preface is by a clergyman named W. Gearing. This gentleman states that Mr. Byrdall was presented to the living by Sir Richard Wilbraham, 1st Baronet. The second book was a volume of Eighteen Sermons, preached in Walsall Church, and published in 1666. It is dedicated as the former, and is prefaced by a Funeral Discourse, by Anthony Burgess, Minister of Sutton Coldfield, in which the age of the deceased is supposed to be 55. Shaw assumes that Mr. Byrdall was inducted to the living before the religious troubles of the time, and that, when in 1643 the Act was passed, which substituted the "Directory for Public Worship" for the "Book of Common Prayer," he assented to the change. This statement appears to rest solely upon supposition, and he seems also to have died on April 30th, 1662, just before the passing of the Act of Uniformity. In a volume entitled "A Testimony of the Ministers in the Co. of Stafford to the Trueth of Jesus Christ, and to the Solemn League and Covenant, &c., London, 1648," it gives "Thomas Burdall, Minister of God's Word at Walsall; Francis Stone, Schoolmaster at Walsall." He was reputed a popular preacher, a scholar, and a man of most estimable virtue.

Will dated 11 Pr. at Lichfd July 1662.

1662	... Richard Bourne, M.A.	Sir Thomas Wilbraham.

He was Prebendary of Oloughton, in Warwickshire, which then belonged to Lichfield Cathedral. The value of the Prebend was £4 14s. 4d. He died on April 18th, 1687, and seems to have been an absentee for some years previous to his death.

Will pr. at L 5 apl 1687

c 1686	... Thomas Dicken ...	Sir Thomas Wilbraham.
1708	... Rev. John Moss	Earl of Bradford.

He died in 1733, and was buried in the North Chancel.

Date of Institution.	Perpetual Vicars.	Patron.
1733	... Rev. Robert Felton ...	Lady Bradford.

He died at the Vicarage in 1769, and was buried near the Vestry, at the entrance of the south-west wall, where a monument was erected to his memory, which bears the following inscription, "Near this place lie the remains of Robert Felton, Vicar of this Parish near six and thirty years; born and educated at Newport, in the County of Salop, from whence he went to Oxford, and was some time a Commoner of Magdalen Hall, where he took a Bachelor's Degree; from thence he retired into Shropshire, where he was sent for by the Right Honourable Mary, Countess of Bradford, who generously gave him this living, without his knowledge or application.

Ob. 29 April. Æt 64."

ept., 1769	... Rev. John Darwall ...	Earl of Mountrath.

He was the son of Randle Darwall, who was Rector of Haughton, near Stafford; was Curate of the Church and was made Vicar in 1769. He was the author of a book entitled "Discourse on Spiritual Improvement from Affliction." It was printed in Walsall by F. Milward, in 1789, and is dedicated to the Earl of Mountrath, from whom the author "had experienced the most generous kindness and the tenderest humanity in his afflicted state." He published besides, in 1778, "A Visitation Sermon preached in the Parish Church of Walsall." In 1766 he married Miss Whateley, the authoress of "Poems on several occasions," (8vo), of which she published a new edition under her married name in 1774, 2 vols., small 8vo, Walsall. Mr. Darwall was a good musician, and his name survives in a favourite hymn tune. He died at the Vicarage on December 18th, 1789, and was interred in the "New Burial Ground."

une 15, 1790	... Rev. John Simpson Rutter	Earl of Mountrath.

He was Curate for more than ten years, and died suddenly at the Vicarage, on November 18th, 1795. Æt 49.

ay 14, 1796	... Rev. John Darwall ...	Earl of Mountrath.

He was a son of the former Vicar of the same name, and was Lecturer and Incumbent of St. John's Chapel, Deritend, Birmingham, to which he was presented on April 12th, 1791, and which he seems to have held until 1828.

Date of Institution.	Perpetual Vicars.	Patron.
Dec. 3, 1803...	Rev. Philip Pratt ...	Earl of Mountrath.

He was nephew of Mr. Preston, a favourite and companion of the Earl of Mountrath, and through his influence obtained the appointment. He is described as "a preacher whose discourses were delivered in a dignified, yet unaffected style, and from their piety and eloquence, were calculated to have the desirable tendency of reclaiming the vicious and strengthening the Christian hearer in his faith." He married in 1806 Miss Caroline Adams, and died September 10th, 1822. The following account of his funeral is taken from "Glew's History," and it would appear from it that he was held in high esteem by all his fellow townsmen:—"The corpse was preceded from the Vicarage by the Beadle, Sergeant-at-Mace, and members of the Corporation, in their robes; six Clergymen, and nearly one hundred of the principal inhabitants, all attired in deep mourning, with silk hatbands and gloves (provided at their own expense). The coffin, resting on a bier, and covered with a pall, was borne by eight bearers, and supported by six relatives of the deceased. The body was taken into the Church, which was densely crowded on the occasion, and service was read in the most affecting manner by the Rev. Joseph Harting (Curate). It was then interred underneath the north-east porch. No death in Walsall ever excited more genuine sympathy, not only on account of the virtues of the deceased, but his distressed family. The gentlemen attending the funeral afterwards adjourned into the Chancel, and there most cheerfully subscribed, for the benefit of the bereaved widow and orphans, £340 and upwards, to their everlasting honor, humanity, and benevolence."

Nov., 1822	... Rev. John Baron, M.A. ...	Lord Bradford.

He was son of Captain Baron, R.N., and was born at Lostwithiel, Cornwall. He resigned in 1857 on account of ill-health, and went to Clifton, and afterwards is said to have become a naval chaplain. 1837

1837	... Rev. George Fisk, M.A., LL.B.	Lord Bradford.

Of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. He was Curate of St. Bodolph's, Cambridge, and in 1834 Rector of Darlaston. He instituted Evening Lectures at Walsall on Sunday and Thursday. The first of these took place on Nov. 26th, 1837, when the Church was for the first time lighted up with gas. The collection on this occasion, made for the purpose of defraying the expenses, amounted to over £24. In 1843, he published "Memorials of a Visit to the Holy Land,' and two volumes of Sermons. In 1845, he was appointed Vicar of Great Malvern. He is still remembered as an eloquent and powerful preacher. His death took place at Malvern in 1873.

1845	... Rev. John Hodges Sharwood, M.A. St. Edmund's Hall, Cambridge. He was one of the founders of "The Pupil Teachers' System," and founder of "The South Staffordshire Schoolmasters' Association." Prior to coming here he was Vicar of Rowley Regis. He died after a ministry of five-and-twenty years, on April 8th, 1871. He was Rural Dean for Walsall.	Lord Bradford.
Sept. 21, 1871	... The Rev. William Allen, M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge. Vicar of St. George's, Lilleshall, Shropshire, 1857-71. He resigned in 1883, and is now Vicar of Eccleshall, and Prebendary of Lichfield Cathedral.	Lord Bradford.
Feb. 2, 1883	... The Rev. Robert Hodgson, M.A. Scholar on the Foundation of Eton College, and Scholar and Exhibitioner of Oriel College, Oxford. Prior to becoming Vicar of Walsall, he had been Curate of Stoke-on-Trent 1868–1872, and from that date until 1883 held the Vicarage of Christ Church, West Bromwich. He is Rural Dean of Walsall, and Surrogate, and a member of the Diocesan Council.	Lord Bradford.

The value of the living is £410.

(A) Mary Persehouse married Thomas Ryckthorne, of Bobington, in 1607. Reignalds Hall was an ancient structure, which stood near the site of Reynolds Hall Farm. It was taken down at the commencement of the present century for the purpose of working the limestone beneath.

(B) He married Mary Hall, and in 1646 was heavily fined for his adherence to the party of the King. He or his father built the "White Hart" at Caldmore.
